Journal Organizacija

Special Issue on Sustainability, Education, and Migration to Participants of EURO XXIII 2009 or Any of Its Satellite Events

At the occasion of EURO XXIII 2009 – 23rd European Conference of Operations Research, July 5-8, 2009, Bonn, Germany (<http://www.euro-2009.de/conference.htm>), the journal Organizacija (www.organizacija.fov.uni-mb.si) invites submissions of papers to a special issue in the areas on Sustainability, Education, and Migration. The papers may include cross-cultural, comparative or other types of research that may be related to human resources, education, management and information systems. The scope of this special issue will be expanded to research that includes, especially, studies related to the urban peripheries and the rural society that is in search of a sustainable life. Topics are drawn from, but not limited to, the following areas:

- improvement of living conditions at rural countrysides and urban peripheries,
- improvement of living conditions in developing countries,
- analysis and improvement of quality of education,
- forecast of migrations, their challenges and measurements to face them,
- problems in infrastructure and its development,
- sustainable development,
- organizational theory, development and restructuring of organizations and institutions,
- new and innovative organizational structures and approaches,
- quality management,
- organizational behaviour,
- human resources management,
- information systems restructuring,
- planning, development and management of information systems, application of information technology, and
- environmental management.

Organizacija is indexed in the following databases: INSPEC, ERGONOMIC and CSA (Cambridge Sociological Abstracts). A very thorough process of refereeing will be guaranteed. This high scientific level will enable and inspire readers to pursue research projects in the aforementioned areas, thus serving -- and fostering a better and fruitful understanding between -- our people and our nations.
